The company was established in 2023 and is based in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. The company was founded by Yordanos Melaku, who has over 12 years of experience in the mining sector, working for international companies in both technical and managerial roles.

Ethiopia has many varieties of high quality gemstones, including opals, emeralds, sapphires, amazonite, amber, rubies, tourmaline, aquamarine, chrysoprase, peridot, as well as various types of quartz, agate and jasper. In recent years, Ethiopia has also become a major producer of opal, sapphire and emerald.

Our company can supply rough and Semi-finished Ethiopian quality gems, industrial minerals, metallic minerals and construction materials in fair and competitive price. All the minerals we supply are inspected and verified by professionals and well experienced geologists. Also, all our minerals that we export are further inspected and grades gets approval from the Ethiopian Ministry of Mines before the minerals are exported out of the country.

Some of the gemstones we export briefly described as below:

Emerald

Ethiopia's known emerald deposits are located in the Sebu Boru district of the Oromia region in southern Ethiopia, where the rural villages of Kenticha and Dermi host particularly high quality deposits. The Sebu Boru emeralds were first discovered in August 2016 by artisanal miners looking for tantalum, and these new discoveries are comparable to the Colombian emeralds in terms of hue and quality.

Sapphires

Sapphires have been mined artisanally for many years in northern Ethiopia, Tigray, particularly around the town of Chila. There are three known types of sapphire in Ethiopia. Blue Star Sapphire, Fancy Sapphire and Colour Changing Sapphire. Blue Star Sapphire, Fancy Sapphire are common, but 'colour changing' sapphires are found in the areas around Chila. These colour-changing gemstones feature a blue, star and green series and can be classified as either 'High-Fe' sapphire or 'Low-Fe' sapphire and are formed by magmatic and metamorphic processes. Ethiopia also produces the rare and coveted pink sapphires known as

'padparadscha'.

Opals

Shewa and Mezezo Opal

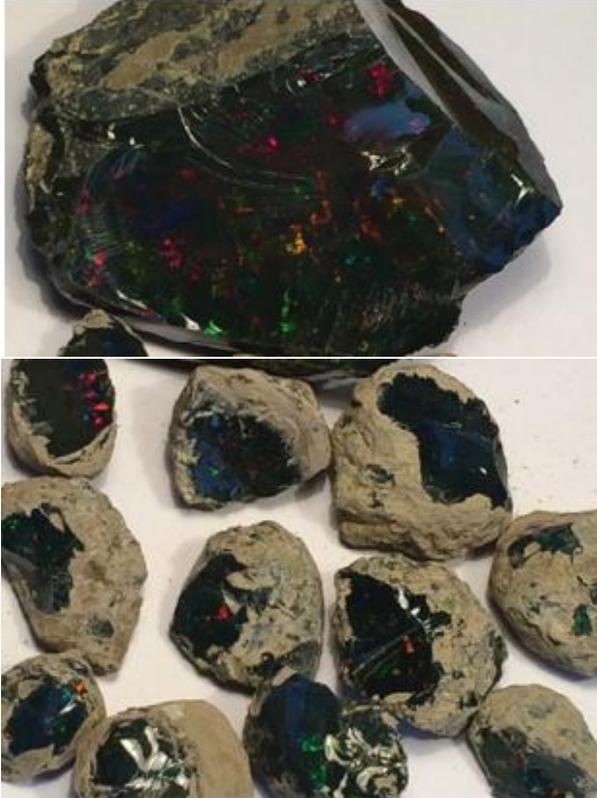

Shewa and Mezezo opals were discovered in 1980s on the highland plateau located in the central Shewa province of Ethiopia, 2,500 to 3,299 meters a.s.l. covering a large area of 100 to 200 square km. This is a variable opal, including stones with chocolate, honey and fire colors and qualities.

Welo opal

The Welo opal was first discovered in 2008 in Northern Ethiopia, Amhara region. The opal mines extend from Welo and Gonder zones over 400 square km. Welo opal is mined 2,500 meters a.s.l. Welo opals have play of colors of multicolor, yellow, green reddish brown with orange, reddish brown, and brown precious opal with unique nature body color/multicolor.

Black opal

Ethiopia's most recently identified deposit, Black opal was discovered in 2013 at the Stayish mine just 100 km from the famous and historic town of Lalibela in northern Ethiopia, it is also called Lalibela opal. Mined in a distinct opal-bearing layer in a mountainous area of around 3,000 meters in altitude, the general body tone of the rock is dark in color, hence the name 'black' opal. But the opal itself has a vivid play-of-color multicolor, yellow, green reddish brown with orange, reddish brown, precious brown opal with unique nature/dark body color/ visual multi color.

Afar Opal

The Afar opal is commonly fiery, with minor opalescence and a distinctive character. It was discovered as recently as 2010 in the Afar Regional State, in northern Ethiopia. Artisanal and small-scale mining of Afar opals currently takes place in Ethiopia. Afar opals appear to be with nodules of a reddish brown with orange, reddish brown, or "chocolate" brown precious opal inside-greater with unique nature/ multi color/ visual multi color.

At the time of loading the minerals, the client is required to pay 40% of the total payment and at the time of receiving the minerals, the client is expected to pay the remaining 30%. It is the Seller's responsibility to arrange export clearance, freight charges and any local duties and taxes.
